/ARTIST BIOGRAPHY

Montreal artist Lalie Douglas creates impromptu in-situ performance and installation projects outside of traditional gallery spaces. Douglas has shown in group and solo exhibitions in Canada and internationally, and has received research and creation grants from the Conseil des arts et des lettres du Québec and the Canada Council.

/TAKE YOUR FEARS AWAY

"Tell me the worries in the back of your mind, your concerns for the future, your childhood phobias, your baseless terrors and paralyzing fears, and I will take them away." So begins Lalie Douglas's performance project, wherein "fears" collected in Montreal serve as the basis for three intensive weeks of unannounced performances, ephemeral installations and furtive interventions in the public spaces of Calgary. Working out of Stride's Project Room, Douglas will attempt to symbolically overcome or diminish the power those fears hold. Concurrently, new fears will be collected and taken back to Montreal to complete the process in a series of performances at Article gallery.
